

Hon. Alfred Lechner, Jr.

Judge Alfred Lechner, Jr. served as United States District Judge, District of New Jersey (June 1986 to October 2001) and Superior Court Judge, State of New Jersey (January 1984 to June 1986).

Judge Lechner specializes in securities, class action, corporate and general business disputes, intellectual property disputes and employment disputes. He has worked as a trial attorney before and after his service as a judge.

During his tenure as a US District Judge, Judge Alfred Lechner published more than 250 opinions concerning Securities, Class Action, Contract, Corporate, Intellectual Property, Product Liability and Employment law and sat by designation on the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. As an attorney, he has briefed and argued appellate matters before the Third Circuit, as well as the state supreme and appellate courts of New Jersey.

Judge Alfred Lechner has had a broad range of trial experience in complex contract disputes as well as in securities, anti-trust, intellectual property and employment and disability litigation, and has prosecuted and defended civil actions under the federal securities laws, RICO, and various state business and commercial statutes. His employment law experience includes matters concerning non-competition and non-solicitation claims, misappropriation of trade secrets and ERISA matters. He also supervised and conducted internal corporate factual investigations and compliance reviews.

Judge Lechner has extensive experience in representing pharmaceutical companies in litigation, including conducting mock arbitration hearings, mock trials, and mock appellate and motion arguments since he left the bench (the "Mock Proceedings"). He has conducted over fifteen mock trials, at least two of which had full juries (and one of those also had a shadow jury), in addition to six mock arbitrations. Of the mock trials and mock arbitrations, about a dozen concerned patent litigation (and of those, seven or eight concerned pharmaceutical patents and licenses). Most, if not all, of the mock trials and mock arbitrations also involved mock motion practice, some more extensive than others. All of these Mock Proceedings also included consultation with counsel (sometimes including inhouse counsel) concerning legal and factual strategy, the order of argument for the proceedings as well as drafting of briefs, and evaluating witnesses.

While on the bench, Judge Lechner had more than three dozen pharmaceutical patent matters (including infringement, licensing and ANDA litigation) assigned to him, some of which were resolved by trial, some by motion practice and some by settlement. Since leaving the bench, he has also been involved as counsel in several patent trials in the Districts of New Jersey and Delaware.

Judge Lechner was Vice President, chief litigation counsel, for Tyco International (2005-6, post-scandal) where he managed class-action law-suits, securities, employment, intellectual property and general corporate litigation. He was a member of the editorial board of Securities Litigation Report (2004-2012, Thomson) and an adjunct professor of law at Seton Hall Law School (1986-01).

Judge Alfred Lechner has authored several articles concerning securities litigation, defense of class-action matters and related litigation topics, and is a frequent lecturer on securities class actions, complex litigation, corporate compliance, Intellectual Property, employment, and trial practice; he is a member of the National Association of Corporate Directors.
